Good Time to Check Out ERPL with UIC

PIAMS members recently received a letter from Kathy Lauerman about Employment Related Practices Liability Insurance (ERPL) through United Insurance Company, which can protect you when employment related claims are made against you. This is such a precarious time, especially with regard to handling employee issues, we encourage you to look at the benefits ERPL from UIC can bring to your company. If you haven't had a chance to read the letter and look at the information that accompanies it.

You've done everything right...

You've sized your work force to meet projected levels of volume while taking advantage of new technology.

Unfortunately, some employees don't agree with the way you did it. You have been hit with claims of wrongful discharge, age discrimination, race discrimination, or a myriad of other employment related issues.

If you don't have "Employment Practices Liability" Insurance (EPLI) you will spend untold hours and dollars defending your company against these claims, unfounded or not!

United Insurance Company offers graphic communications companies all the flexibility they need to tailor an affordable "EPLI" policy to fit within your comfort level.

The program is designed for the graphic communications industry at a cost as little as 25 cents per employee per day.*

Why suffer the possible devastating financial consequences of an employment practices liability suit when you can protect your company at such a reasonable cost?

* Premiums are subject to the receipt and review by UIC of a signed application for this coverage and any additional information required prior to acceptance.

Visit our website for more "EPLI" information and application

The Night of Face-to-Face Social Networking

On Wednesday, June 17th Design to Print Denver Media Group had a great turnout for its Night of Face-to-Face Social Networking featuring seOverflow, a local search engine optimization company that did a terrific job in demystifying all the components of "Social Networking". The presentation included information on blogging, and the use of the many social networking vehicles like Twitter, LinkedIn and Facebook.

Attendees were thrilled with what they learned and one commented that she had attended several similar presentations and "this session was by far the best she had attended with regard to both content and presentation". It's nice to move into the summer hiatus on such a high note.

As the old song says "See You in September" when the topic will be Project Management.
